

Continuing Education Questionnaire

The New Normal: Understanding Family and Individual Dynamics Following TBI

Write Your Name:

Once this form is completed, please submit to institute@neurorestorative.com

1. Brain injury is the most challenging issue for:

- Survivors
- Families
- Professional
- All of the above

2. Key factors impacting “Adjustment, Coping, and Acceptance” include:

- Transportation availability
- Size of the family unit
- Pre-injury lifestyle of the family
- Housing options

3. The Corpus Callosum is responsible for:

- Our ability to walk
- Connecting the left and right cerebral halves
- Our ability to see
- Our ability to process information

4. The stages of “Adjustment, Coping, and Acceptance” are:

- Identical for families and survivors
- Only applicable for the families or the person with the brain injury
- Different for families and survivors
- Completed in a 6 month period

Continuing Education Questionnaire

The New Normal: Understanding Family and Individual Dynamics Following TBI

5. Damage to the hypothalamus may cause:

- Appetite disturbances
- Vision changes
- Paralysis
- Problems in ambulation

6. The left cerebral hemisphere is responsible for:

- Our ability to ambulate
- Movement of the upper and lower extremities
- Analytical skills, reasoning, logic and language
- Our ability to move all 4 extremities at the same time

7. The lobes responsible for hearing, memory, and sense of self are the:

- Temporal Lobes
- Parietal Lobes
- Occipital Lobes
- Frontal Lobes

8. Re-calibration of self includes:

- Securing alternative employment
- Managing one's weight more efficiently
- Looking at what you can do in your 40's versus what you could do in your 20's
- Seeing your doctor on a regular basis

9. Additional factors impacting "Adjustment, Coping and Acceptance" include:

- Severity of injury
- Depth and length of coma
- Age at time of injury
- All of the above

10. Videotaping allows the survivor of brain injury to:

- Analyze their behavior and break down task steps
- Show therapy staff what they can do
- Demonstrate to family their level of recovery
- Increase their level of self-esteem