

Continuing Education Questionnaire

Write Your Name:

Once this form is completed, please submit to institute@neurorestorative.com

“Improving Insight and Awareness in Brain Injury”

1. Anosognosia is also known as:

- A. an inability to recognize faces
- B. an inability to recognize errors in work
- C. lack of insight
- D. a psychological defense mechanism

2. The regions of the brain most responsible for self-awareness include:

- A. prefrontal cortex
- B. cingulate and insular cortex
- C. complex connection of neural physiology across regions
- D. all of the above

3. Two different models of awareness include:

- A. Easley’s Pyramid Approach
- B. Crosson’s Model of Awareness
- C. Toglia and Kirk’s Dynamic Comprehensive Model of Awareness
- D. B and C

4. The FREE awareness rating scale available online is called:?

- A. the Awareness Scale
- B. the Patient Competency Rating Scale (PCRS)
- C. the Scale of Insight and Awareness
- D. the Patient and Spouse Rating Scale

5. The PCRS offers rating scale versions for completion by:

- A. the patient
- B. the family member
- C. the clinician
- D. all of the above

Continuing Education Questionnaire

6. The website address that gives you access to the FREE tool is:

- A. www.tbims.org
- B. www.brainline.org
- C. www.txbia.org
- D. www.braintools.org

7. Clinical activities that can help improve an individual's level of awareness:

- A. videotape review
- B. cognitive obstacle course
- C. community-based activities
- D. all of the above

8. An individual may need to experience _____ in a safe, but functional task under the supervision of a clinician or caregiver in order to improve awareness of certain deficits.

- A. fun
- B. failure
- C. frustration
- D. fatigue

9. Which significantly impaired cognitive skill impedes progress the most in self-awareness development after brain injury?

- A. attention
- B. problem solving
- C. flexible thinking
- D. memory

10. Deficits in which level of awareness elicit the most frustration for therapists and caregivers?

- A. Intellectual Awareness
- B. Anticipatory Awareness
- C. Emergent Awareness
- D. On-line Awareness